

Invest In Vol Launches Emerging Volatility Manager Program

Invest In Vol - the specialist volatility advisor - announced today the launch of its Emerging Manager Program for high potential volatility managers. Invest in Vol is a leader in developing and managing volatility focused investments.

Invest In Vol announced today the launch of its Emerging Manager Program. The Program is focused on helping high potential volatility managers develop a rigorous and marketable track record. “From our experience, the two largest hurdles for emerging managers to overcome are developing rigorous track records, and navigating the complex financial regulatory landscape” said Justin Young, Partner and Portfolio Manager at Invest In Vol.

The Invest In Vol Emerging Manager Program allows aspiring volatility managers to focus their efforts on implementing their investment strategy under the support and guidance of an experienced team of volatility professionals at an SEC Registered Investment Adviser. The Program will be limited to ten select managers in 2019 who have demonstrated their potential to excel in a highly competitive market.

Upon successful completion of the Program, selected managers will have the opportunity to leverage the Invest In Vol brand and its platform to attract and manage client assets.

“Our goal is to professionalize the market for volatility investments through education and training,” said Dr. Stuart Barton, founder of Invest In Vol. “By vetting and training managers in this fast growing space, we hope to expand client access to volatility returns and help improve managers’ investment approach.”

Invest in Vol (IIV) is an SEC Registered Investment Adviser with a team of financial professionals dedicated to volatility investing. IIV advises and manages investments for hedge funds, advisors, family offices, and individuals through sub-advisory services and Separately Managed Accounts (SMAs).
