Invest In Vol partners with Six Figure Investing to offer the most complete consulting service in the volatility industry

Invest In Vol, the New York based volatility advisor, announced today its partnership with Six Figure Investing and Vance Harwood to offer consultancy services exclusively focused on the growing volatility and VIX landscape.

The partnership adds Six Figure Investing's considerable data analysis capabilities to Invest In Vol's broad experience in volatility trading and product design. The partnership expands Invest In Vol's current market offering and enables delivery of larger and more complex client projects.

"We are becoming central to the growth of volatility investing, not just through managing volatility strategies for investors, but also by helping investment managers understand the volatility space better." said Dr Stuart Barton of Invest In Vol. "Our consulting practice will further open up the volatility market to new players."

Consulting comes as the third service offered by Invest In Vol - which already includes Investment Management, and Sub-Advisory. A full list of consulting services is available on their website at: <https://www.investinvol.com/consulting>.

"I'm excited to be working with the leader in the volatility space and believe our partnership will greatly aid the growth and understanding of volatility products." said Vance Harwood, founder of Six Figure Investing.
